

Young Oxted Players

Wind In The Willows

By Kenneth Grahame, Adapted by Mike Kenny

Directed by Sophie Mactavish

Character Breakdown

Mole: Mild-mannered, honest, and initially timid. He acts as the audience's guide into the riverbank world. He grows immensely in confidence and bravery throughout the adventure.

Rat (Ratty): Practical, poetry-loving, and deeply attached to the river. He is sensible, fiercely loyal, and welcomes Mole into his idyllic life.

Toad: Wealthy, boastful, and completely reckless. Driven by absolute passion for the next big thrill (especially motorcars), his chaotic antics drive the plot.

Badger: The gruff, commanding and reclusive elder figure who lives deep in the Wild Wood. He values discipline and tradition but is kind and deeply protective of his friends.

The Riverbank & Woodland Creatures:

Chief Weasel: The calculating, sneaky leader of the Wild Wood Intruders.

Weasels, Stoats and Ferrets: The chaotic, rough-around-the-edges gang who temporarily take over Toad Hall.

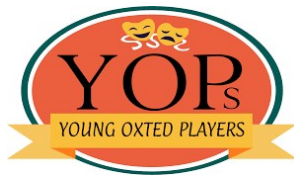

Otter and Portly: A riverbank friend and his young, adventurous child.

Other Woodland Creatures: Field Mice, Rabbits, Hedgehog.

The Humans (encountered during Toad's Escape):

The Magistrate: The stern judge who sentences Toad to prison.

The Gaoler (Jailer): The guard in charge of keeping Toad locked up.

Young Oxted Players

The Gaoler's Daughter: A kind-hearted and clever girl who takes pity on Toad and masterminds his 'washerwoman' escape.

The Engine Driver: The train driver who helps a disguised Toad escape the police pursuit.

The Barge Woman: A woman who offers Toad a lift on her barge but quickly sees through his disguise.
